

GREEN SHOPS

The Lenten season brings with it a full quota of new things in the shops. There is a wide range of styles and infinite variety of models from which to choose the costume for that important occasion, the Easter promenade. Perhaps the prettiest costume seen in a local shop is sketched. The lady has an indescribable air of quaint charm as she wears this adorable creation, reminiscent of bygone days, yet with a few knowing touches that are anything but old fashioned. Made of soft white taffeta, the jacket falls in rippling folds from the shoulder. Around the bottom and up to the collar in front there is a band of dark blue taffeta. The collar of blue taffeta is edged with is extremely smart, and is a copy of a recent importation. Built of white taffeta, the new feature is the shoulder cape effect, achieved by a wiggly shoulde cap over the long white sleeves. The bodice has three deep tucks, under which is a girde of black velvet, with one long streamer allowed to hang to the knees on the left side. The collar is a double frill of plaited net and ties about the throat with black velvet ribbon. The tucks are set midway between hips and knee, giving the skirt the desired flare, and under the tucks, at loop trimming of brilliant cerise satin ribbon, with long ties, knotted or tied daintily under the chin. The sleeves are bell shaped, with wide slashed cuffs, turned back with a huge pearl button to show the lining of blue taffeta, which is trimmed with the cerise ribbon loops. The skirt is extremely voluminous, skirted in at the waist, with a frill to finish it off at the top and suspender straps of blue over the shoulders. Deep bands of blue taffeta trim the skirt.

THE NEW LACE SHOULDER CAPES.

A QUAIN EASTER CREATION.

Another smart suit is of conehang blue colfax material. Fashioned on the tailored lines, the coat is belted in Norfolk effect, with wide white and dark belt. Buttoned to the chin with pearl buttons, big white enamel and round holes are used effectively as trimming. The coat is lined at the bottom with white broadcloth, and there are two big patch pockets of white. Touches of white are on the collar and cuffs. The waist is moderately wide, bordered around the bottom with white broadcloth. Other suits of velvet, pu seal and jersey cloth are priced from $25 to $75.

FEATURING THE NEW CAPE SLEEVE

A LEBORN POKE BONNET.

In one shop is a showing of pretty afternoon gowns. The frock in the sketch

FOR OVERWORKED WOMEN

This is the season of the year when the wife and mother begins to feel the strain of household and social duties, and gets into a rundown, nervous, weakened condition. To all such our local druggists say: "We have a rare combination of the three oldest tonics known, in Vinol, which we guarantee to restore strength, make you eat better, sleep better and feel better, or we will return your money."

O'Donnell's Pharmacies and other Washington Drug Stores that display the Vinol sign.

P. S.—In your own town, wherever you live, there is a Vinol Drug Store. Look for the sign—Advertisement.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

Special Correspondence of The Star.

NEW YORK, March 21.—If a garment would escape a cape it must take to its heels and run over the horizon, only in such a trick is safety.

However, it is possible that no woman wants to allow this escape. She may like capes. They may represent to her something new in fashions of which she wants to take full advantage. And again, they may appeal to her economical sense, as cloaks cover a multitude of sartorial defects.

In the latter connection women have shown wisdom in buying the separate capes of thin, supple fur, or heavy program silk lined with early printed cape, which can be put over a dark frock in order to make it serve as a street costume during the change of the seasons.

From present indications it looks as though the cape will receive its fullest amount of approbation in this connection. By June it will probably be as common as a sweater. Despite the whirlwind of sweaters that swept over the country from Canada to Florida, the popularity of and desire for this early colored garment did not end. It may be that capes will share the same fate.

Any Material Will Do.

Somehow the cape always gives one a mental impression of an old woman, old-fashioned and slightly decrepit in appearance; but after one morning's survey of the capes in the shops and those on the shoulders and such mental impression is erased. The cape of the hour is a rakish little garment. There is nothing demure about it. It is the essence of modernity.

When the cape is made of fur it is severely plain and is fastened with seals and tassels, or broad, satin ribbon. The latter is preferred. When it is of program silk it is sometimes finished with a high, rolling collar and soft revers and lined with brilliancy.

So far it has not followed the new fashion laid down by the home of "cherish for lining spring and summer coats with colored linen instead of silk. This is a new note struck in fashion, and it will probably delight the tailors. Even bandana cotton with its gorgeous coloring is used for coats of shining and other varieties of Chinese weaving, and in silk coats there are linings of scarlet, mauve, Chinese blue and Chinese yellow.

WALL PAPER

10c and 12c Rolls, 5c
Border, 2 1/2c Yard.
15c and 18c Rolls, 9c
Border, 3c Yard.

Spring effects—for bedroom, dining room, parlor, hall and kitchen. Fourth Floor—6 Elevators.

The Palais Royal

A. Lisner Hours, 9 to 6 6 Street

Three New Blouses Worth Seeing

Made to the Special Order of the Palais Royal.

Sport Blouse	Vestee Blouse	Frill Blouse
$2.00	$3.00	$3.95

Facsimile of an expensive imported model, of handkerchief linen, with convertible collar and turn-back cuffs. Some trimmed with hem-stitching and crocheted buttons, combining white with colors. Third Floor—Facing Elevators.

A man-tailored model, with ideal lines. Of Georgette crepe, with vestee finely tucked. Square collar and deep cuffs, finished with frill. All sizes in white and flesh. Third Floor—Facing Elevators.

The picture shows you—and note that the collar and cuffs match. The material is of crepe de chine, in white and flesh, with large pearl buttons the ornaments. Third Floor—Facing Elevators.

YOUR EYES

Glasses at $1.00

The simple lenses in the glasses at $1.00 are only for eyes normally short or long sighted. The optometrist here will examine your eyes—without charge—and you will soon be impressed with the correctness of his diagnosis. Balcony Office—Street Floor.

BLACK AND WHITE CHIFFON BLOUSE WITH LACE CAPE AND CUFFS.

Dress As Illustrated.

$19.50

Of soft-finish taffeta silk. The two Vandyke flounces have picot edge all around. The cross-over bodice is edged with Georgette crepe, matching the sleeves, which are finished with deep taffeta cuffs. Pleated taffeta girdle, with oxidized buckle fastening.

$12.50 to $25

New Dresses in bewildering variety are here at $12.95, $14.95, $16.95, $22.50 and $25.00, including more new styles than in any three specialty shops. Third Floor—6 Elevators.

Suits at $25.00

—Including All the Intermediate Sizes.

36 to 55 Sizes

No Charge If Alterations Are Necessary.

Perfect tailoring, perfect lines and perfect fit, linked with the styles of the imported Suits that have to retail at twice $25.00. It is an occasion extraordinary that will not be repeated this season.

Note the Paris and London Features.

Double-pocket effects; extra detachable silk collars; leather trimmings; suits with sport coats of jersey cloth and white serge skirt; semi-blouse models; corded and belted waist lines; slightly form-fitting and latest London Norfolk effects.

Materials Are Pure Wool, Spunged and Shrunken.

All-wool poplins, serges, gabardines and all the new checked cloths; colors include the new rookie, tan, various shades of sand, new blues, greens, brown, also black.

Third Floor—6 Elevators.

"Nemo" Corsets--the $5.00 "Wonderlift" at $2.99

Other $5.00 to $10.00 Models at $2.99 88c For Various $1.00 to $1.50 Models.

Street Floor—near elevators—all "broken lots" are brought from the Third Floor Corset Department and placed on these tables daily. Tomorrow morning the famous "Wonderlift" of Brassieres, 44c Broken lots—but all sizes in one style or another. Reduced to 44c for choice. Street Floor—Near Elevators.

Nemo fame will be found on table at $2.99 for choice. Plenty of other makes—in smaller sizes—some that were to $10—are now only $2.99. And $1.00 to $1.50 Corsets at 88c—probably your favorite number.

Dainty Pink Lingerie, $1.00 On Third Floor.

Nightgowns, Envelope Chemise and Combination garments of sheer batiste in a pretty shade of pink, guaranteed to wash without fading. And note that some of the garments have yokes of fine laces and medallions.

Silk Bodices 69c Exactly As Illustrated.

Of silk crepe de chine, white, flesh and pink, with yokes of net and lace. The elastic waist line assures comfort and grace. Street Floor—Near Elevators.

Japanese Kimonos $1.00 Just From the Orient.

Of serpentine crepe, in floral designs, some typically Japanese, others with American features. Third Floor—6 Elevators.

P.R. $7.50 Hats $6.66 For One Day

Ready Trimmed or To Order. Tomorrow—Thursday—March 23.

Palais Royal prices and Palais Royal Hats have to be judged by a distinct standard. The Palais Royal $5.00 Hats are superior to many selling at $7.50. The famous $7.50 Hats here are better than usual $10.00 hats. It means for tomorrow that $6.66 suffices for the equal of usual $10.00 Hats.

Made to Order If Desired.

Go to second floor parlors and inspect those ready to wear. If variations of styles or colors are desired, the hat will be made to order without extra charge.

Silks--Special Lots $1.35 and $1.85

Values Are $1.75 to $2.50 Yard.

At $1.35 yard are 40 Inch Wide Wash Silks, including plaid and stripe crepe de chine in new color combinations; also satin-face lap silks in ivory, flesh and black. All superior—will launder perfectly.

Also at $1.35 yard—40-inch Satin Charmeuse in the new spring shades, also black and white.

At $1.85 are Yard-wide Satin Stripe Silks, some self colors, some in artistic combinations. Second Floor—Near Elevators.

Wool Fabrics--Four Specials 45c to $1.20

Special No. 1—45c yard for 59c Wool Serges, double warp, in navy and black. Special No. 2—75c yard for $1.00 Shepherd Checks, 54 inches wide. Choice of five sizes of black and white checks. Special No. 3—95c yard for $1.50 Novelty Suitings, 54 inches wide, in best shades of navy blues and perfect black. Special No. 4—$1.20 yard for $1.50 Gabardine, 45 inches wide, in delit, Russian, plum, light navy, dark navy and black.

Georgette Crepe, 40 Inches Wide, $1.50 Yard

Black, White and All the Best Colors, With Following Laces, on Street Floor, Near Door.

29c to 75c yard for Valenciennes Lace Points, with one-inch heading. 39c to $1.00 yard for Chantilly Lace Edges, 3 to 9 inches wide; white and cream. $1.50 to $5.98 for Black Chantilly Lace Flouncing, 18 and 24 inches wide. $2.50 per yard for Newly Beautiful Flowered Georgette Crepe, 42 inches wide.

"Vaporize" Croup or Cold Troubles

Vapor treatments for cold troubles are better than internal medicines, as the vapors carry the medication direct to the lungs and air passages without disturbing the stomach.